“It’s difficult to get a time to suit especially at dentist for the children, not many appointments after school time and none on weekends for working parents”

“Travelling 50 miles for a blood test, followed by a similar trip the next day for treatment”

“Patient transport inconsistent. Harshness in taking into account family circumstances”

“What else could the money buy? We don’t know”

“Prescriptions never ready, always asked to come back”

“Clear information about hospital appointments I found phone service worked well. Nurse taking bloods worked well so doctor was freed up to do other things”

“As for the care received from medical/nursing/ancillary staff it has been good/excellent”

What is Northumberland saying

65% of respondents said that their experiences of health and social care were good or excellent over the last twelve months.

12% of respondents rated their service as poor compared to 6% in 2017.

It not the care it is the things that happened around it - transport, administration, coordination

What is Northumberland saying

Comments about dentists, hospitals and ambulances generally more positive

GP's received many favourable comments but lost confidence from respondents when it came to booking appointments.

Appointments were mentioned 205 times

Issues - call backs, screening by reception staff and waiting all day to still need an appointment, impact of a hearing loss or mental health problems

What is Northumberland saying

Finding out about general mental health services for young people is hard. No standard approach shades good quality

Welcome sensible ideas - sharing patient records

People care and want to be asked - energy generated in Rothbury, Berwick and Wylam
